Welcome to ADAM, the projects and products portal for Leonardo da Vinci.

Leonardo da Vinci is part of the European education and training programme "Life-long Learning" and focuses on initial and further vocational education and training. Year after year, Leonardo da Vinci projects develop a multitude of innovative education and training products featuring tailored solutions for direct use in companies and at education and training institutions. Not all of these products are as well known as the European Computer Driving Licence developed by a Leonardo da Vinci project but most are of the same high quality.

Using ADAM, you can obtain a full picture of the many products and results produced by the Leonardo da Vinci Programme. There are two ways of doing so: Either you enter a key word under "Search for Projects and Products" and the database gives you a list of all projects and products on this subject or you refine your search using the "extended search" function.

Are you a project contractor in Leonardo da Vinci and interested in making the results of your project available to a wide public? Then please register under "Login".
